

The Big Summerfest Update

How Long Will it Last

There is certainly a time in everyone's life that they should spend a week drinking too much, eating too much, punishing their ears too much, and having gratuitous sexual relations with strangers (of the opposite sex of course). Most people would agree that those times should end shortly after college ends and definitely before the horizon of the mid 30's. In a sober moment we might stand back and tell ourselves that we are too old to act like kids on Milwaukee's lakefront. Luckily, our friends at World Festivals Inc. having given us the excuse. Through the clever promotion called the "Millenium Momentum" the head honchos at Summerfest have raised the specter of an end to the festival unless the city of Milwaukee grants them the lease extension that they desire. Do you realize what that means? If we don't participate in every fest moment that we can, we might not be able to do so ever again. Just think of the tragedy of waking up one late June morning and realizing that there was no adult playground waiting for us to show up in a cheesy tank top or jog bra, smothered with SPF and marinated in beer. We have to savor these moments now. Imagine you are eating a bowl of popcorn and you can see the old maids in the bottom. Now is the time to really enjoy the last of the popped kernels.

Marcus Amphitheater

- June 24 Rod Stewart-If you think he's sexy
- June 25 BoDeans/Chris Isaak and the Party of Five
- June 27 R.Kelly and Foxy Brown-don't know 'em
- June 28 Dave Matthews-not worth the entourage
- June 29 Alan Jackson
- June 30 Lauryn Hill
- July 1 Brandy-I could just puke
- July 2 Mellencamp-sorry Roeder, yesterday's news
- July 3 Lynyrd Skynyrd-still alive after all of those crashes
- July 4 Bob Dylan Paul Simon

- June 24 The Boogie Men
- June 25 Sonia Dada-Oh mama
- June 29 Delbert McClinton-related to Dogbert?
- June 30 .38 Special-needs a new name after the Columbine tragedy
- July 1 Neville Brothers
- July 2 B-52's-lobster in the love shack
- July 3 Brian Setzer Orchestra
- July 4 Love Monkeys

BACKYARD

- June 24 Love Monkeys
- June 25 Big Head Todd and the Monsters
- June 26 Village People-double puke
- June 27 Eric Burden and the New Animals-with old songs
- June 27 The Boogie Men-stolen from Miller
- June 28 George Benson-on loan from Sports Night
- June 29 REO Speewagon-I want to keep on hearing you
- June 30 Foreigner-old enough to have visas by now
- July 1 Hootie and the Blowfish-so 15 minutes ago
- July 2 More Hootie to go
- July 3 Boz Scaggs
- July 4 Ziggy Marley-free doobies for everyone

- June 29 silverchair
- June 30 The Verve Pipe-ar they the same as the Verve?
- July 1 The Gufs-Milwaukee's own
- July 2 Even Guffer
- July 3 Joe Strummer-like that's his real name
- July 4 Collective Soul

- June 24 Joey McIntyre
- June 25 Willy Porter
- June 26 Freddy Jones Band
- June 27 Robert Cray
- June 28 Vonda Shepard-is Ally really anoxeric?
- June 29 Simisonic
- July 1 Reel Big Fish
- July 2 Shawn Mullins
- July 4 Peter Himmelman

- June 24 Morris Day and the Time-won't party like 1999
- June 25 Tony! Toni! Tone!-won'ty, won'ti, won'te
- June 26 Chicago-damn FIBs
- June 27 Los Lobos-the movie was 10 years ago!
- June 29 Deana Carter
- June 30 Journey
- July 1 Little Feat
- July 2 Booz Brothers-Bob's best man
- July 3 Jimmie Vaughan-stay away from Alpine Valley
- July 3 Buddy Guy
- July 4 Doobie Borhters-where's Ziggy?

You'd almost think they were newlyweds!

Chicks Get Married, Too?

Over the recent few years we have seen some of our Summerfest men get married, and while we don't necessarily approve, we understand that it is a natural process and the most cost-effective way to get a son. To be honest, most of the Summerfest wives are swell gals and are real troopers letting their men continue to act silly for one week a year. In fact, we have seen post-nuptial Chirstine Hansen and Michele Reid enjoy more than one beer and we expect newlywed Annemarie Buehler to be found in line at the beer tent, too. But something strange has happened. Summerfest women we know simply for themselves and not because they are dating one of the guys have been getting hitched. Candace Acheson, Sharon Stephany, and Cathy Daly all showed up with rings on their fingers. Could it be that the much-hyped lack of a Women's Corps is really just a myth? Maybe the Summerfest guys are really charming and appealing. Maybe Ray's fear of commitment is really a sign of character. Maybe our hope lies in Southern Ohio.

They're Cute, They're Short, They're from Cincinnati

(The Women's Corps Really Exists)

The name of Kathy Anderson has been no stranger to these pages over the years. Her frustrated love life has been the subject of a little fun from time to time and presented an interesting balance to Fred's futility. But the fact is: she has come to the fest from more cities and brought more friends with her than anyone else. Not only can she engineer like the men, she can party like them, too. In 1998 she outdid herself, bringing three of the sweetest, cutest things along with her. We can only hope that Sonya Rasmussen, Kelley Hull, and Jen Herbers will get the addiction and continue to visit Milwaukee every June. Men and women dancing, drinking, and eating under the sun together in platonic bliss can only strengthen our moral fiber and demonstrate that meaning of life is more than sex. (Unless the guys get drunk and have to satisfy their needs. Theour Women's Corps needs to step up and do the right thing.)

Fred is the dreamiest (and that's all hegot)

I am Woman Hear Me Roar '99

Editor's note: Last year's update contained some Cosmo quoted truth concerning the end of sex after the honeymoon is over. In response, Michele Reid would like to tell the "real" story.

Sex does not necessarily dwindle down after marriage! If it by chance does decline in quantity, it certainly increases in quality. Besides, reasearch has proven that a decline in "married life" sex is due to the man lacking the energy. After all, a woman in her 30's is just reaching her peak {sexual} years. Men in their 30's are primarily concerned with furhtering ther career and "establishing" a life for their "families". H owever, as one man quoted in Redbook magazine said, "I am amazed at how tired I am at the end of the day. But when my wife and I do muster up enough energy to have sex, it' midboggling, down-and-dirty, gorilla grunting sex." Really, I memorized this from Redbook because I knew that someday my married sex life would be put to the test. I can attest to the above, except for the gorilla grunting! Married sex is great, and it does exist.

SUMMERFEST INFORMATION ENCLOSED!

SPECIAL COLLECTORS EDITION!

READ! MEMORIZE! BE THERE!

Update Central
11102 Fox Cove Dr.
Charlotte, NC 28273